Hazleton, a prominent business man of Oneonta, Otsego county, New York, today appeared at District Attorney Jerome's office and declared in an affidavit that he saw Young fire the fatal shot. ## REV. ROBT. STRANGE BISHOP COADJUTOR

RT. REV. ROBERT STRANGE, Bishop Coadjutor of East North Carolina.

His Consecration Takes Place With Impressive Ceremonies.

MANY BISHOPS PRESENT

Grandly Sublime Service in Presence of Great Throng—Reception to Bishop Strange.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILMINGTON, N. C., November 1.—In the presence of six bishops, more than a score of priests and a vast congregation, that taxed beautiful Saint James Church to its full seating capacity, Rev. Robert Strange, D. D., was today consecrated bishop coadjutor of East Carolina. It was one of the most interesting and impressive church services ever conducted in Wilmington, and the immense audience, which was present, represented all denominations. To all alike, it was a grandly sublime service. There was, perhaps, never assembled in Wilmington a more distinguished body of churchmen.

Aside from the bishops, there were present some of the leading clergymen and prominent citizens of this and other States. Everything combined to make each feature of the occasion perfect. The following bishops were present: Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, Bishop of South Carolina, who presided; Rt. Rev. Robert Atkinson Gibson, Bishop of Virginia; Rt. Rev. Alfred Magill Randolph, Bishop of Southern Virginia; Rt. Rev. Joseph Chesler, Bishop of North Carolina; Rt. Rev. Theodore D. Bratton, Bishop of Mississippi; Rt. Rev. Junius Moore Horner, Bishop of Asheville. A large number of the clergymen of the East Carolina diocese were in attendance.

Full Vestments.
Bishops and priests were robed in their full vestments. The whole, with the tasty decorations about the altar, made a beautiful scene. It was genuinely regretted that the beloved Bishop Watson, of East Carolina, could not be present at the services. His feeble health was not thought to be sufficient to warrant his taking the exertion, which would have been necessary, had he taken part in the consecration.

After the processional, Bishop Capers opened the services, and he was followed by Bishop Gibson, reading the epistle. The sermon was preached by Bishop

A PROMINENT MAN WITH BURGLAR KIT

Found Dead on Top Bank Building With Military Suit on and Burglar Tools Near by.

(By Associated Press.)
MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 1.—James Hendrix, aged twenty-two, one of the most prominent young men of this city, was found dead early this morning on the roof of the American National Bank building with a set of burglar's tools lying near him. He was killed while trying to cut an electric wire. The police are making every effort to ferret out the mystery which surrounds the death of Hendrix. He was dressed in his militia uniform and his citizen's clothes were found at the armory of the Montgomery Grays. A complete set of burglar's tools were near him, and on Hendrix's person was nitro-glycerine, dynamite, fuses, a glass cutter, and a pistol. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by electricity.

MURDER AND ROBBERY

Cashier of Cody Wyoming Bank Killed and the Funds Carried Off.

BUFFALO BILL AROUSED

Great Scout on the Trail in Personal Charge of Posse.

(By Associated Press.)
CODY, WYO., November 1.—Four heavily armed outlaws from the Hole-in-the-Wall country held up and robbed the First National Bank of this place today, and after shooting and killing Cashier Frank Middaugh, of the bank, had a running fight with cowboys and hunters, and escaped into the Rattlesnake Mountains, where they are to-night being pursued by half a dozen different posess. A battle is imminent. The Hole-in-the-Wall gang are noted as the most desperate outlaws in the West, and the Cody posess are determined to wipe the bandits out of existence.

"Buffalo Bill" himself is en route from Omaha in a special car, having with him a party of titled "Engelshmen" and two of his Sioux Indian scouts, and has telegraphed orders for horses to be awaiting his party at the depot. He will take the train in person immediately on his arrival. Just before the close of the bank this afternoon a party of four roughly dressed men rode up to the First National Bank in the heart of the town and immediately across the street from the Irma "Buffalo Bill's" Hotel.

Three men dismounted and entered the building, the fourth remaining outside to guard the horses. As soon as the outlaws entered the bank, one of them covered Cashier Middaugh, who was the only occupant of the room and demanded the cash from the vault. Instead of complying, Middaugh grabbed a revolver and made a game fight for life and money, firing several shots even before the outlaws could fire at the banker. But Middaugh was excited and his bullets went wild, while the single shot sent from the outlaw's gun passed through the banker's brain and he died instantly.

Speaks at New York and Jersey City and Makes Bold Charges Against the Administration.

Outlines Issues of Campaign in Most Striking Manner.

Issues Outlined by Parker at Newark Yesterday

"Administrative extravagance must be checked."
"There must be equal opportunity for all, and special privilege for none."
"This shall remain a government of laws, not of men."
"There must be a reform of the tariff."

"This nation will no more hold another people in perpetual bondage than it will tolerate the enslaving of individuals by its citizens."
"Overwhelming in appearance are these issues, above them tower the questions: Shall the partnership between the Republican leaders and the trusts continue with profit to both and hurt to the country?"

"Shall the trust contributions of millions to the campaign fund secure the right to continue the wrongful taking of many millions a year from the people?"

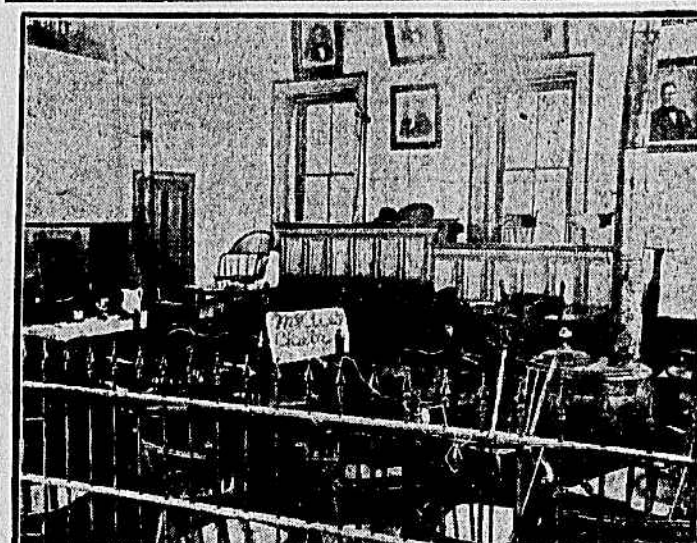

(By Associated Press.)
NEWARK, N. J., November 1.—Eventually ineffective, but temporarily successful was the attempt made to-night to rout a monster Democratic meeting at the Essex Troop Armory, where Judge Parker was the principal speaker. The great building, with a capacity said to be more than two-thirds of that of Madison Square Garden, in New York, was filled with the first night of the present administration and the name of President Roosevelt, hundreds broke forth with terrific cheering, and for several minutes it appeared as though the Democrats were in the minority. The scene that followed was one of unimaginable confusion. Hisses and cheering were mingled. Words in anger and threat were heard, and the police were powerless to control. Finally the Democrats by sheer force of numbers and their greater volume of sound drowned out their adversaries.

Howled in Vain.
The disturbance occurred before Judge Parker reached the hall. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock. It was under the auspices of the Parker Constitution Club, of New Jersey, and Richard V. Landabury was introduced as the presiding officer. He began his speech devoted to national issues, but he had not fairly started before it became evident that there were a number of Republicans in the building. Mr. Landabury referred to the alleged usurpation of power by the Executive in the Panama Republic incident, which appeared to be the signal for the outbreak.

In an instant the representatives of the two parties were locked in a combat of

ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR IN PROGRESS

That Begun on October 24th Was Still Raging October 29th.

Japanese official reports regarding the siege of Port Arthur indicate that the attack begun on October 24th was still in progress on October 29th, the statement being made that the fire of the besiegers was increasing in effectiveness. Nothing of importance has developed on the Shinkai River, where both sides seem to hesitate to assume the offensive, although the Japanese are the more active in the matter of attacks upon Russian positions.

REPORTS OF FIGHTING AROUND PORT ARTHUR

(By Associated Press.)
TOKIO, Nov. 1.—9 P. M.—Imperial headquarters to-night published a series of reports covering the operations against Port Arthur during the months of August, September and October. The chief interest centers in the tremendous attack which was begun October 26th and is still continuing.

Hundreds of Japanese guns began battering against the northerly and easterly forts on October 26th, the infantry moving forward with desperate rushes where the artillery had prepared the way, while the pioneers and sappers were running mines against the Russian forts. The reports record a series of desperate encounters at close range and tell a dramatic story. They describe the bombardments in detail, saying that in the recent engagements much damage was inflicted on the Russian works and several guns destroyed.

The reports say that on October 28th, a conflagration occurred in the old city and a second conflagration was observed in a factory at the northeast base of Golden Hill, which lasted for three hours. Of the operations on October 29th, the reports say:

"At dawn 1,000 of the enemy assaulted our line extending toward Rihing Port, but they were repulsed with heavy losses. Simultaneously a similar force of the

U. S. MINISTER MAKES DEMANDS

Calls for Just and Proper Punishment of Dr. Larabee's Murderers.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—United States Minister to Persia today cabled the State Department that he has emphatically reiterated his unequivocal demand for the just and proper punishment of those responsible for the murder of Dr. Larabee, the American missionary. Mr. Pearson also reported that he had just been told by the Minister for Foreign Affairs, who received his information from the Crown Prince, that six of the accessories to the murder, while endeavoring to escape, were killed yesterday afternoon by Persian forces, and that the remainder of the gang is being actively pursued by the military. By way of retribution for Larabee's mutilation, the Persian military commander had the heads of the ringleaders decapitated, and their heads exposed on bayonets.

Populace Become Excited on Slight Pretext.

EARLY SETTLEMENT IS NOW EXPECTED

Rumor of Probable Trouble Grows Out of Diplomatic Conferences Between Representatives of Two Countries as to Composition of Arbitration Commission.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, November 1.—Negotiations between Great Britain and Russia looking to a settlement of the North Sea affair are progressing favorably and there is not the slightest danger of any friction arising between the two governments.

In spite of these pacific conditions Great Britain has experienced a war panic. Not for years have so many alarmist reports and flaming extras flooded London. The most extraordinary feature of this scare is that there was not one single circumstance to justify it. The excitement started early in the day, when the newspapers announced the departure of the Russian Baltic squadron from Vico. The public were not in possession of the information called for by the Associated Press to the United States, that only the officers concerned in the firing on the British trawlers would be detached, and jumped at the conclusion that Russia had broken faith by not detaching the vessels involved in the affair. On top of this came wild reports of tremendous activity at Gibraltar. Hour by hour the news from Gibraltar became more serious, until at last the climax was reached, with the announcement that the British fleet had cleared for action. In huge type, the papers made the parallel statement: "The Russian Fleet Has Sailed."

"The British fleet has cleared for action." No newspaper and no person seemed able to explain these events.

The History of the McCue Case Written and the Book Closed.

A WITNESS PUT ON BY THE COURT

John Perry Equals Willie McCue for Denials and Says Willie Drew on His Imagination.

NEGRO'S EVIDENCE WAS IMPEACHED

Both Sides Take a Turn at Cross-Questioning the Witness and the Prosecution Scores a Victory—McCue Declares His Innocence.

(Staff Correspondent.)
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Nov. 1.—After a day full of surprises and rich in its gifts to the Commonwealth, the defense closed its case this afternoon and the court formally and with an emphatic rap of the gavel declared the hearing of evidence in the famous McCue trial to be at an end.

In so far as it will appear, the record of the Albemarle horror has now been written. A public sated with details can tell for itself where the story points, whether to the man in the cell or elsewhere, among the unidentified criminality as yet moving beyond the reach of the law. At all events there will be no more. The last word has been spoken and the last chapter told. In the days to follow, the witness chair will be vacant and the only voice within the hearing of the court will be that of the pleaders enlisting upon the jury to convict or acquit.

The verdict will follow and then the nine days wonder will have ceased, to become but an unpleasant memory of the past.

Both Sides Confident.
At the finish both sides are confident and both look with assurance to the future. The Commonwealth, stronger than ever, is more disposed than ever to feel satisfied. The defense, anything but weak, seems not the least alarmed.

To each the mystery of the life is as deep as ever, but each seems sure that it will turn its way. And what of McCue himself, the prisoner now approaching the parting of the ways, that may mean for him life or that may mean for him death. In his cell this afternoon he broke down and sobbed aloud.

"I shall spend every cent I have left to hunt down the murderer of my wife. I am innocent. I pray every night that God may send the murderer here. I believe he will come. It is said in this book (Bible) that he will and I know it. I lie. I shall leave here a free man for I am not guilty. Then I shall find out who killed my wife."

In front of McCue as he spoke was a picture of the woman he is said to have so brutally slain.

A development, wholly unexpected, sent a gush of fresh air across the faded drooping faces of the lawyers and gave to the closing moments of the case for the defense an interest almost entirely lacking in what had gone before. It was another eleven hour sensation, but it was not without its amusing points.

For many past days, John Perry, the only known person to have been in the house of McCue on the night of the homicide, has been a thorn in the side of both prosecution and defense. Within this negro boy's woolly head were believed concealed facts that might clear or condemn; that might prove McCue a murderer or a victim. The boy got into the case through a sensational trial. Each side realized the importance of what might follow his introduction as a witness, but neither cared to assume the responsibility for what the volubility and illiteracy of a small negro boy might suddenly recapture.

With an equal ardor, Woods and Lee yearned for a cross-examination, but neither of the eminent leaders would use John as his own, and surrender to the other the exquisite delight of drawing him through a sieve. That both got what they wanted, is the marvel of the day.

Court's Witness.
The court itself was the agency that drew Perry to the stand. When it was obvious that the lawyers would not risk him Mr. Traynor, the Richmond juror, arose and demanded that he be brought in, and in Perry came. His appearance caused a sensation. The boy got into the chair, and in his statement on the examination in chief, he was strong for the defense.

With amazing promptness Captain Woods, to whom the testimony of the negro had opened up new and hitherto forbidden fields, at once began to impeach him and with such success that before the day closed, it was commonly sided that the Commonwealth had taken a great step forward. Perry's facility with denials was overshadowed only by that of Willie McCue. McCue, for he contradicted Willie, and flatly denied saying things the other admitted he had written down at the direction of the negro boy.

In other respects, the testimony of Perry was damaging to the defense, only in what it brought out from other witnesses, who were confident in their assertions that the servant had made to the damaging admissions that, while upon the stand, he utterly repudiated.

The remainder of the day was given over to minor matters. The defense was in reality through long before noon. McCue did not go on the stand. Up to the very last moment, nobody could say positively
